This was our burndown chart for this sprint. There is an increase in points near the end since we added more user stories from the backlog that we didn't think we would be able to complete at first. It also spiked up since we didn't know there existed the option to report bugs as tasks to be completed, so we added them since there were several bugs that were completed that didn't fall under any of the user stories.

This was our velocity chart for this sprint. We ended up adding more user stories to complete from the backlog that we didn't think we would be able to finish at first, all in an attempt to complete as many tasks as we could, since this was our last sprint. It also helped that many of the remaining tasks built upon harder tasks we had already completed in previous sprints. We also found out about the option to add bugs as tasks, so we included those since a big part of this sprint was making sure that everything worked correctly.
